WITHDRAWN

INTRODUCTION

History. The Library of Congress issued printed cards for music scores in a limited number from the beginning of its card printing program. A more comprehensive cataloging program, expanded to include all types of music, began in 1943, and in 1953 the cataloging and printing of cards for sound recordings was started. The cards printed from 1948 to 1952 are included in the quinquennial cumulation of The Library of Congress Author Catalog 1948-1952. These cards, if they represent a publication issued from 1945 on, are also included in the quinquennial cumulation of the Library of Congress Catalog—Books: Subjects 1950-1954.

The Library of Congress catalogs in book form were reorganized in 1953. Since then the cards for music and phonorecords have been published as a special part of the comprehensive Library of Congress Catalogs, entitled Music and Phonorecords. This cumulation supersedes the four annual cumulations of the Library of Congress Catalog—Music and Phonorecords for 1958-1961 and the January-June 1962 semiannual issue. It is continued and kept current by semiannual issues and annual cumulations.

Purpose. Music and Phonorecords is designed to serve as a continuing and cumulative bibliography of works currently received and cataloged by the Library of Congress and other American libraries participating in its cooperative cataloging program, insofar as these works are represented by Library of Congress printed cards. It constitutes a reference and research tool for this type of material. It serves also, by indicating the LC card number, as a tool for the ordering of LC printed cards.

Scope. Music and Phonorecords contains entries for music scores in the broadest sense, i.e., music intended for performance. It includes, also, phonorecords, i.e., sound recordings, musical or non-musical.

Literature on music and other related materials, e.g., libretti and textbooks, are included in The National Union Catalog, a Cumulative Author List, and in the Library of Congress Catalog—Books: Subjects.

Form of Entries. The entries follow the A. L. A. Cataloging Rules for Author and Title Entries, the Rules for Descriptive Cataloging in the Library of Congress, and the Library's special rules for phonorecords. The main entries are reproduced from the type set for the catalog cards and include the tracing and the LC card number, and in the case of music scores the LC call number and the Dewey Decimal classification. When entries are prepared by other libraries they show the name of the contributing library. Cross references to authors' names or from alternative titles to entries under title are made whenever such references seem necessary. The arrangement is alphabetical with certain modifications as used in the filing of music in the Library of Congress. References are provided through added entries appropriate to the normal reference, bibliographic, and service requirements of a music and phonorecord collection; for example, from the names associated with the work, such as editors, joint authors, and, in the case of phonorecords, performers and performing groups.

Subject Control. Part Two: Subject Index is based on Subject Headings Used in the Dictionary Catalogs of the Library of Congress, its cumulative supplements and auxiliary lists, and on the subject authority cards filed in the Official Catalog of the Library of Congress. The principles employed in the construction and application of these headings are, in brief, the use of terms in common American usage as subject headings and the application of the most specific heading to the material entered.

References from terms which are not used to those which are used (see references) and references to more specific subjects or coordinate subjects representing other aspects or closely related matter (see also references) are included.

Policy. Music and Phonorecords, a cooperative publication made possible only by the common interest of its subscribers and the Library of Congress in the development of tools for the aid of the researcher and the general public, will be kept responsive to the needs and suggestions of its users. A continuing effort will be made to cultivate its potentialities and usefulness within the limits of available means.

Inquiries. Music and Phonorecords 1958-1962 was compiled and edited by the Catalog Maintenance Division of the Library of Congress. Questions and suggestions of an editorial nature should be addressed to the Editor of Catalog Publications, Catalog Maintenance Division, Library of Congress, Washington 25, D.C. Orders and business matters should be addressed to Rowman and Littlefield, Inc., 84 Fifth Avenue, New York 11, New York.

EXPLANATION OF CERTAIN MARKS AND SYMBOLS USED IN THE ENTRIES

Examples
1. Piano music
1. Paray, Paul, 1886–

Immediately below the physical description and any notes concerning the publication are listed the subjects with which it deals (preceded by Arabic numerals) and the names of persons and corporate entities connected with the publication (preceded by Roman numerals). These terms, including "Title" and "(Series)", are used in preparing headings for cards in library catalogs, and indicate that entries will appear in such catalogs under the title, under the name of the series, etc.

M1619.B25J7

The Library of Congress call number appears at the lower left corner of the entry. The absence of a call number for a musical composition indicates that the entry was prepared by another library and that the Library of Congress either did not have or had not cataloged the publication at the time the card was printed. Phonorecords are not classified by the Library of Congress and therefore no call numbers appear on the entries for them.

783.4

The number in the middle of the last line of an entry is the Dewey Decimal Classification number, which is assigned for use by libraries in classifying their holdings by that system. Decimal numbers are assigned to a limited number of bound musical publications. To the end of 1951 these numbers were assigned from the 14th edition of the Decimal Classification. During 1952–1958 both the 14th and 15th editions were used. If the numbers from the two editions were alike except in length, only the longer number was given. If the numbers differed other than in length, both were given. In all cases, numbers taken from the 15th edition were preceded by an asterisk. Since January 1959 numbers have been assigned from the 16th edition only. Numbers prefixed by a "j" are used for juvenile titles and are assigned from the 8th abridged edition of the Decimal Classification. This latter practice was begun in May 1961.

The number assigned to each card for identification, ordering, and stocking purposes appears in the lower right corner of each entry, on the same line as the numbers described above. Cards may be ordered from the Card Division most economically by using this card number. It consists of the last two digits of the year the card was first printed and a serial number, also the letter "M" or "/M" for musical compositions or the letter "R" for phonorecords. For special series a distinguishing abbreviation, such as C, J, Mic, etc., is added in front of the card number. An asterisk after the card number indicates that the publication was cataloged during the period July 1947 to December 1949 according to the then new Rules for Descriptive Cataloging. Since that time the asterisk has been omitted. "rev", "rev 2", etc., indicate revision of the original entry.

Many libraries participate in the Library's cooperative cataloging program by sending catalog entries to be printed as LC cards in the MA or RA series. The name of the contributing library appears in the lower left corner of the entry. Occasionally the call number assigned to the publication in the cooperating library follows its name. If the Library of Congress has a publication for which a cooperative catalog entry has been supplied, the LC call number may sometimes be found printed in its usual place. An incomplete bracketed call number indicates that the Library of Congress holds another edition of the publication. A complete bracketed call number indicates that the Library of Congress keeps a collected set of the series.

xvi p., score (134 p.) facsims. 26 cm. (The English madrigal school, v. 33)
For 4–5 voices; includes reduction for piano. Originally composed "for instrumentes and voyces."
Contents.—Songs of four voices: The man upright of life (words by Thomas Campian) He only can behold (words by Thomas Campian) O heavy heart. In hope a king. Though wit bids will. But yet it seems. I can no more but hope. Who loves this life. My prime of youth (words by Chideock Tichborne) The spring is past (words by Chideock Tichborne)—Songs of five voices: Rest with yourselves. For love is frail. Shall I abide this jesting? Can I abide this prancing? The study rock. The stately stag. What if a day (words by Thomas Campian) Earth's but a point (words by Thomas Campian) There is a garden in her face (words by Thomas Campian) Those cherries fairly do enclose (words by Thomas Campian) Her eyes like angels (words by Thomas Campian) Behold now praise the Lord. O Lord bow down thine ear. The sacred choir of angels.
